AND CONSTANTLY INCREASING. The Charter of this Company offers more favorable advantages to the farmer and others, than any Company chartered in the State, by insuring with or without a premium note. If the applicant prefer, he can pay the full amount of the premium in each, or by effecting a cash insurance for two years, the insured saves one-eighth of the amount he would otherwise have to pay; or by becoming a member, and giving a small premium note, the insured saves nearly one-half of the amount charged by Stock Companies, when insuring from year to year. This is the advantage resulting from the combination of the

This Company commenced issuing Policies against loss or damage by fire, on the 13th day of March, 1854, since which time over seven thousand seven hundred persons have insured and become members of the Company, and over seventy thousand dollars have been paid for losses. Having increased our business during the past year, we feel grateful for the liberal patronage bestowed upon the Company thus far, and for its flattering prospeets of future usefulness. MISCELLANEOUS READING.

AN INDIAN FUNERAL --- A Fort Riley correspondent of the Pittsburg Dispatch gives a description of an Indian funeral: There was a procession of wagons, drawn mostly by small Indian horses, called ponles. The first wagon contained a rough coffin and six old squaws, three on each side of the coffin, all kneeling with heads bowed in mournful silence; the horses, also, walked slowly along, with their heads near the ground, as if conscious that their last sad duties were being performed for another of the native sons of the soil. The second, third and fourth wagons contained children, (the voungest in front,) all silent, some with downcast eyes, and others gazing at the scene in wonder. Then followed quite a number of the Indians on their ponies, all in single file, no two riding abreast. In the rear were several old Indians, on foot, tottering along as if they, too, had nearly blossomed for the grave. They came to the entrance of the grave-yard; the coffin was carried to the grave, a ring was formed around it, all kneeling, and as it descended, a low moaning chant was commenced which seemed to swell until it became sweet but mournful to the ear, then it died away in the same low sounds with which it began; all arose, and one by one left, a few of the near relatives of the deceased remaining to ponder over his untimely death. The Quid Nunc, a paper published at Grand Junction, Tenn., has three editors who cannot agree upon a presidential candidate, consequently the journal supports both Breckinridge and Douglas. The manner in which this is done is curious. On one page, edited by Colonel D. B. Gally and Dr. N. H. Prewitt, are the names of Douglas and Johnson, under the head "National Democratic Ticket," together with a paragraph stating that the other side of the paper is a separate and distinct "institution," with which they The great and mighty God, in his infinite have nothing to do. Turning to this other side, edited by R. G. Adams, the reader finds the names of Breckinridge and Lane, with heading "Only True National Democratic licket," and the following paragraph: Read Both Sides!-The outside of this paper is a separate and distinct department, under the editorial control of D.
